NEW QUESTION: 1

Which four actions must you perform to access Active Directory (AD) in order to create appropriate authentication permissions?

- A. Ensure that the Domain Name Server (DNS) configuration refers to the same DNS server as the Active Directory servers.
- B. Enter the object class mappings for posixAccount and shadowAccount.
- C. Enter the details of a domain administrator who has the authority to allow the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance to join Active Directory (AD).

D. From the Configuration > Services > Active Directory page, click the Join Domain button.

E. Ensure that the clocks on the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance and Windows Active Directory (AD) domain controllers are synchronized.

Answer: A,C,D,E

Explanation:

Configuring the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance for AD Access (E) In order to create the appropriate authentication objects and permissions, the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance should be configured to access AD. The DNS service plays a large role in AD and the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance must therefore be configured to use the Windows DNS Service.

(D) Clock synchronization is also important for correct AD operation. Clock skew between the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance and the AD Domain Controllers must be less than 15 minutes for a successful AD join. It is highly recommended to install a Network Time Protocol (NTP) service and to configure the Oracle ZFS Storage Appliance and the AD domain controllers to become clients of the service.
